Nutrition and Wellbeing

We are dedicated to ensuring that our products and communications promote healthy living on a daily basis.

Our Approach

Food and nutrition are essential to health, wellbeing and quality of life across all life stages. They also enrich our social interactions and cultural identities; however, many regions face dietary deficiencies, leading to various forms of malnutrition. Simultaneously, there is an urgent need to transition to sustainable food systems that can ensure future food security on our planet.

Almarai is uniquely positioned to tackle these challenges through our extensive product portfolio. We have designed a corporate nutrition strategy, which addresses the nutritional needs of individuals across all life stages—from mothers and infants to children, teens, adults and seniors. To ensure the nutritional quality of our products, we have implemented a nutrient profiling system aligned with the Saudi Food and Drug Authority (SFDA) 2333 standards, international dietary guidelines and global benchmarks for salt, sugar and fat content. We also enhance our innovations by integrating nutrition classification into our development processes.

We also recognize our responsibility to support individuals in leading

Health and Safety

We are committed to fostering a culture of safety by creating secure work environments that prioritize the wellbeing of our employees.

Our Approach

Safety is a key element of Almarai’s culture, influencing every facet of our operations. We utilize Almarai’s Health and Safety Management System to safeguard our employees, contractors and third parties. This system is designed to guide our programs, procedures and workplace culture, ensuring safety across all levels of the organization. It guarantees protection for our people and assets. It ensures that Health and Safety objectives, targets and expectations are clearly articulated, along with specific roles and responsibilities. Additionally, the system is designed to facilitate noticeable enhancements in how we measure performance and gather feedback.

Our Leadership is Committed to Promoting a Culture of Health and Safety

Visible safety leadership and commitment from our management cultivates a robust safety culture within our organization. Our leaders exemplify this principle through their daily actions, which helps to instill a 100% Health and Safety mindset and implement effective safety measures. Our employees are also regularly updated by our Corporate Health,

“Our Health and Safety Management System, which was developed drawing upon industry-respected standards such as ISO 45001:2018 (Occupational Health and Safety) and ISO 14001:2015 (Environmental Management System), sets out our requirements and standards for implementing the commitments and expectations for driving continuous improvement in Health & Safety performance.”

Safety and Security Forums. These forums play a pivotal role in ensuring adherence to international best practices and guidelines, facilitating knowledge sharing and promoting a unified commitment to safety across all Business Units. Health and Safety awareness programs are made available for all staff members and printed materials are continually distributed. By actively involving employees at every level, we promote a collective responsibility for ensuring a safe, healthy and secure workplace.

At the heart of our safety culture are three core components:

Safe Person, Safe Place and Safe Practice.

- Safe Person: Safeguarding our employees against long-term workplace-related health issues.
- Safe Place: Embedding safe work practices and standards that promote the personal safety of every person in our company.
- Safe Practice: Improving the design implementation, management and control of identified hazardous processes within our operations.

The Rise in Technology in Maintaining Health and Safety

Technology plays a crucial role in our efforts to manage and mitigate risks, promote best practices and enhance training accessibility. In 2024, Almarai continued its commitment to digitalization projects, ensuring that our employees have access to cutting-edge resources. We expanded our near miss reporting web form, enabling employees to easily report incidents such as near misses, unsafe acts and hazardous conditions. Additionally, our cloud-based online incident reporting system is accessible to all employees via smartphones. Digital awareness channels and events are also employed to keep everyone updated with the latest health and safety information. These digital systems are integral to Almarai's pursuit of achieving our sustainability goals.

Our Incident Reporting System

To improve our monitoring and analysis of incidents related to health, safety and security, we have established an accessible incident reporting system for all employees. This system empowers workers and stakeholders to report near misses, unsafe behaviors, unsafe conditions, and hazardous conditions without fear of retaliation. The data collected is carefully tracked and analyzed to identify trends and issues, supporting evidence-based decision-making. The insights derived from this analysis allow us to implement targeted interventions aimed at preventing future incidents. Furthermore, the system enables us to assess the effectiveness of our control measures, ensuring continuous enhancements to safety protocols. Through this comprehensive approach, we are committed to safeguarding the health, safety and security of our employees and stakeholders in the workplace.

We take pride in obtaining the ISO 45001:2018 certification for all our Business Units, highlighting our commitment to upholding the highest standards of OHS. We are actively focused on maintaining this certification across all our Business Units for ISO 45001:2018 certification.

By implementing this certification across all our manufacturing and supply chain locations, we strive to create a strong foundation for a safety culture, ensuring that international best practices are consistently and transparently integrated into all our Business Unit operations.

Gender Equality in Health and Safety Roles

Our Health, Safety and Security (HSS) committee, as of 2024, has integrated 22 female employees into roles as fire marshals and first aiders. Before 2022, the committee lacked female representation, highlighting our dedication to enhancing the presence of women within our workforce. This initiative is in line with our commitment to gender equality, fostering talent development, building capabilities, and creating opportunities for all employees.

Training and Awareness on Health, Safety, and Environment

The competence and capability of our workforce is critical to our ability to keep our people safe. With this in mind, we have established a range of health & safety training initiatives for both employees and contractors, aimed at enhancing skills across all levels and functions. These programs and initiatives helped us promote a 'safety first' culture and rigorously evaluate the effectiveness of our safety controls. By nurturing a proactive health & safety mindset, we empower every individual to identify and respond effectively to unsafe or hazardous situations, ensuring swift and decisive action to maintain safe and healthy working environment.

From 2019 to 2024, Almarai successfully provided 1,259,620 and 22,712 hours of training to employees and contractors in health and safety. This includes 231,299 hours of training to employees and 6,985 hours of training to contractors for 2024.

Our Partnership with Institution of Occupational Safety and Health (IOSH)

Almarai has partnered with IOSH to enhance worker protection standards. This collaboration, which began in 2022, aims to develop occupational safety and health (OSH) awareness among our employees. The IOSH for Business team has helped us become an IOSH-approved training center, supporting 16 of Almarai's OSH professionals in achieving IOSH membership and completing a "train the trainer" course. As our partnership with IOSH expands, we plan to introduce two IOSH courses: "Leading Safely" for senior leaders and "Working Safely" for all staff.

In conjunction with managing our safety processes, we are also developing a tailored occupational health and wellbeing program for our employees. This initiative includes training modules that address various mental health topics, equipping individuals to recognize early signs and symptoms of mental health issues and implement preventive strategies through a variety of digital resources. Additionally, we are in the process of launching an Employee Assistance Program (EAP) that will enable our staff to Access Psychological Support 24/7 from anywhere in the world, in multiple languages, allowing them to discuss personal matters confidentially. Our mobile occupational health unit is just one aspect of our comprehensive efforts to deliver an accessible occupational health and wellbeing program for all employees. Since 2020, we have consistently implemented additional health and safety measures, prioritizing the physical, emotional and economic wellbeing of our workforce.

Monitoring Our Safety Performance

We set key performance indicators to systematically track our progress in ensuring the safety of our employees and the communities we serve. Our monitoring efforts concentrate on several critical areas that align with industry benchmarks. These include the number of lost time injuries (LTIs) for both employees and contractors, the lost time injury rate (calculated per million man-hours) for both employees and contractors and the employee absenteeism rate across all regions, including the GCC, USA, and Argentina. This comprehensive approach enables us to maintain a strong focus on safety and continuously improve our performance.

We are exploring innovative ways to incorporate technology, such as virtual reality simulations and online courses, to make our programs more accessible and engaging. Almarai’s Commitment to Biodiversity

At Almarai, we are committed to support nature and biodiversity as an important way to address climate change, protect the environment and communities and the future of our business. To fulfil this commitment, we allocate a portion of our community investment funds to support various environmental protection initiatives. One of our core initiatives is to ensure the health and welfare of the animals in our care. We do this by upholding our Animal Welfare Policy, which is designed to meet internationally recognized standards. This policy is a fundamental aspect of our operations and reflects our dedication to ethical practices as a prominent leader in the food and beverage sector. By prioritizing animal welfare, we are not only ensuring the humane treatment of animals, but also reinforcing our reputation for quality and responsibility within the industry.

We also recognize the importance of tree planting as a vital strategy for enhancing and preserving biodiversity. We have undertaken extensive tree planting initiatives, incorporating a variety of species to enrich local ecosystem. We have taken advantage of our reach and scale to participate in national efforts that aim to restore degraded ecosystems. In collaboration with the National Center for Vegetation Cover Development under the Ministry of Environment, Water and Agriculture, we actively supported to plant millions of trees, contributing to the Kingdom's Vision 2030 ambitions. We have been involved in the "Let’s Make it Green Initiative," through substantial financial contributions and active participation.
